

Vedanta Sutra..

➤ What we practice today in the name of management is something which our forefathers knew long ago, courtesy the Vedas.

Principles of Vedic Management

- Principles are neither religious nor spiritual, they are based on individual, social, national and universal principles that are always complementary to one-another but never contradicting
- These messages are applicable to everyone in the world and bring about revolutionary internal changes and evolutionary external changes in the society or organization.